Product versions and upgrading to NVivo Plus

March 2020 version

In March 2020 Lumivero launched the successor to NVivo 12. Due to the connotations with the number '13', they chose to not give this new version a number, but it is colloquially referred to as 'R1', '13' or even '20'. One of the new features this version brought was moving certain functions into the cloud; as a consequence, Lumivero asked institutions to sign a declaration that ensures they can use the new features whilst Lumivero protected and reassured them from a compliance, security, GDPR and data protection perspective. Once institutions had submitted the new declaration, Lumivero provided the new licence keys.

NVivo 14

Fast forward to March 2023, and Lumivero launched NVivo 14. This builds on the previous version; the declaration detailed above is still required if sites have not completed it / moved to the March 2020 version.

Another change is that, with the launch of '14', a 'Pro' version is no longer available, meaning only sites licensing NVivo Plus can move to 14 (for a few years the only place NVivo Pro has been available globally has been via Chest, we pushed for it to be maintained as long as possible. If you don't want '14', you are welcome to remain on Pro, but if you want '14' you have to move to 'Plus' (see below for details of the advantages Plus brings). There are four possible scenarios associated with upgrading:

1. You are currently on the version launched in 2020, and have a Plus licence. If this is the case, Lumivero will send out your '14' licence keys imminently, you do not need to take any action
2. You are on the version launched in 2020, and have a Pro licence. In this case, you would need to upgrade to NVivo Plus in order to receive '14'. Do so by placing a new order for NVivo Plus, ticking the box in the order process marked 'Upgrading from Pro to Plus'. If your licence has renewed since June 2022 (i.e. this Agreement), all prices are visible on the 'Products and Pricing' tab of this Agreement, the difference is never more than £1300 per full year. If you took your licence out through the '2017-2022 NVivo Chest Agreement', pricing would be worked out based on the prices valid at the time, please ask us for a quote. Pricing through to your next licence anniversary would be pro-rated; you would then be invoiced for a Plus licence for the remainder of your term
3. You are on NVivo 12, and have a Plus licence. You'd need to sign and return the above declaration, at which stage Lumivero would send out your '14' licence keys as soon as possible.
4. You are on NVivo 12, and have a Pro licence. You'd need to sign and return the above declaration, and then upgrade to Plus (see point 2 above)

NVivo

NVivo is software that supports qualitative and mixed methods research. It lets you collect, organise and analyse content from text, images, video, audio, emails, spreadsheets, online surveys, web and social media data in virtually any language. The Lumivero NVivo Chest Agreement offers two elements, NVivo and NVivo Collaboration Server (previously known as NVivo Server and NVivo for Teams).

New to NVivo? Visit the NVivo Customer Success Centre - there's something for everyone. And Research Ready helps all users get their research prepared to prevent issues with importing and coding once in NVivo

There are two levels of NVivo available, Pro and Plus.

NVivo Pro supports the widest range of data sources. Ask complex questions of your data with advanced data management, query and visualisation tools.

NVivo Plus offers all the functionality of NVivo Pro for Windows plus:

- Automatically create social network visualisations from social media data or your own project data
- Autocoding by themes and sentiment

This latter functionality is extremely important. It doesn't replace the researcher but it gives automated insights and can significantly speed up the process of coding by giving a starting point to the researcher's own investigations as well as provide a useful tool for eradicating unconscious bias.

Please note the latest version of NVivo, Version 14, only offers Plus.

Version Differences

There are some key differences between '14' and the previous version. UI, appearance, functionality, etc are all identical but:

1. Citavi integration. For those users using Citavi there is a direct integration button built within NVivo so that Literature Reviews can be done much faster and more effectively.
2. Significantly improved Collaboration Cloud functionality allowing Mac and Windows interoperability (currently the project owner must upload the initial project from Windows, not Mac but then Windows and Mac users can collaborate on a common project) and also delivering REAL-TIME collaboration

This latter functionality is the big difference. Collaboration Cloud with the previous version is based on batch upload/download/merge. With Version 14 the initial project is uploaded, collaborators are invited and then clone a copy of the central project. They can work offline but as long as they are online, or as soon as they re-connect, all of their changes are merged with the central project allowing full real-time functionality. All users can see all changes pretty much as soon as they are made.

Visit NVivo Products for more information on NVivo Pro, NVivo Plus.

NVivo Collaboration Server

NVivo Collaboration Server can now be found in the 'NVivo Collaboration' Agreement.

Some further information on NVivo

Q: Why do we have to complete the form to get the latest keys?

A: The form is really about enabling the new version of NVivo. Collaboration Cloud requires the new version so it's a pre-requisite in that regard. People can still use 12 but 12 doesn't support the Collaboration Cloud. Also worth noting is that once you've saved a project from the new version it will no longer be possible to open it in 12. The new version will open projects from all old versions but not vice-versa.

Q: How about home users?

A: In terms of home users, Lumivero now have multiple deployment models so that you have a bit of choice as to the best way to do it. Details can be found here.

Q: Will we still be ok to use the older versions under the licence agreement, as well as the newer version?

A: there's no problem with still using the older versions. However, Lumivero have ceased support of 10 and 11. On that basis it is probably time to encourage users away from older versions. Users don't lose anything by moving and the projects will all get updated automatically to the latest version with no data loss when they make the move. Obviously all development resources are now dedicated to the new version and so there will be no improvements in 11 or 12 and in order to use Collaboration Cloud you need to be on the latest

Q: Where and when may data be moved and/or hosted elsewhere?

A: NVivo is all kept on the device – it never goes into the Cloud. The only data that goes into the Cloud from NVivo itself is the logon details for the portal – email and name. Collaboration Cloud and Transcription services are both cloud-based. For this data, hosting is on Microsoft Azure servers that sit within the EEA (Netherlands). The failover that's in place through Microsoft's hosting is based in Ireland. No data would leave the EEA. It is GDPR compliant and a secure encrypted environment.

Q: Do I get one key for Windows and another for Mac?

A: The Windows key activates the Mac version. The Mac key doesn't activate the Windows version. So Lumivero only issue the one (Windows) license key for Chest accounts since they can activate both with it.

Q: How about overseas researchers?

A: If you have a need to support researchers outside of UK&I then please contact Simon Taylor at Lumivero (staylor@lumivero.com) for details and options. Essentially however, it's not about where the software is, it is about where the users are, so remotely accessing the software from overseas is included in this.

Q: Is there a download link for the installer that we can apply to the version on our network?

A: The version that you can download from is always the latest release (requires log in to the portal)

Q: Can we install NVivo in an Azure Virtual Desktop environment within one of our organisation's Azure subscriptions?

A: As long as the restrictions on territory – i.e. users must be UK-based – then there's no problem from a licensing point of view with using Azure Virtualised Desktops. Worth noting that NVivo is not directly supported in that environment however: there's no reason why it shouldn't work but given how active NVivo is at accessing its back-end data there may be performance issues. Lumivero would suggest some User Acceptance Testing be carried out first

Q: What's the situation regarding the hosting?

A: The hosting is provided via Microsoft Azure with servers in the Netherlands and backup servers in Ireland so all EEA and all GDPR compliant

Price Banding

Price Banding for Lumivero NVivo as determined by Chest and Lumivero using institution banding by sector, and by combined academic staff and student FTE count as in this table.

HE and Irish sites have been placed in bands, you can find your band effective July 2023 here - Site Banding. Other sites, or sites requiring the old banding list, should contact Chest help.

Banding Model Change

For the period 1 July 2022 to 30 June 2023, any renewing institution may renew on the same band as their previous licence.

However, from 1 July 2023 onwards, sites whose licences come to an end (i.e. after three or five years) must renew on the correct band for their latest HESA-based FTE numbers. The banding via the above link is the latest figures. This information will be updated annually.

The institution will then remain on that price band for the term of their licence (three or five years) unless their combined FTE figure changes sufficiently that they would move by two bands or more, either up or down.

So for example, as of May 2023 a university has a current combined FTE count of 6400. On renewal in July 2023 they would renew as a band B site. However, in May 2024 that university merges with another university, taking their FTE to 9400. That is only one band different, so they would stay as a 'B' until the end of their full term. If they then opened a new faculty in May 2025, adding another 800 FTE, that'd take them to 10200 FTE, so they would have to move from Band 'B' to Band 'D' on their next licence anniversary. Any questions about this please contact Chest Help.
